Subject: Urgent Request for Intervention and Acknowledgment – Response by Friday, 8th November

Dear Australian Politician's, (Please excuse the CC but this email is meant for every one of you).

RE: 29.10.2024 A really good letter of healing non violence to Australian Parliamentarians and senators but they are torturing me copy.pdf attached to this email

I am reaching out to you today with an urgent plea for intervention in my situation. My name is Barran Dodger, and I am a victim of ongoing systemic abuse, targeted harassment, and institutional neglect, intended, I believe, to punish me for my work as a whistleblower. Without intervention, I fear my life is at risk, targeted by an “intelligently designed poverty” and political complicity that aim to silence me and strip me of my rights. I have attached an NDIS support workers report of my egregious human rights abuses and conspiracy, un-investigated by NDIS and AHRC.

I am the author of Betrayed, Murdered, Forsaken, an autobiography that chronicles my life of resilience amid unimaginable hardship, family violence, and systemic persecution. Diagnosed with schizophrenia, I have endured extreme forms of coercive control and financial manipulation, having lived as an infamous vagrant, confined to my car, without any support or security. A few years ago, the weight of constant vilification, deceit, and abandonment led me to attempt suicide. Though I was revived, I awoke only to face further blacklisting, brutal institutional abuse, and ongoing corruption aimed at breaking me.

I am in a position where I cannot report a crime to the police or their oversight bodies. As a rejected whistleblower, I am suffering political reprisals that restrict my access to justice and deny me a fair hearing. I am also unable to secure legal representation in violation of the Charter of Human Rights of Disabled Persons, which Australia ratified in 2008. Having been psychometrically profiled, investigated, surveilled, and set up through various forms of harassment and gang-stalking, I am rendered vulnerable, without recourse to safety, justice, or legal protections.

This situation contravenes multiple laws, both nationally and internationally. Under the United Nations Convention Against Torture (UNCAT), International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (ICCPR), and the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD), I am entitled to dignity, autonomy, and protection from abuse. Domestically, protections under the Public Interest Disclosure Act, Disability Discrimination Act, and various Mental Health Acts should have been enforced, yet instead, these measures have been denied or misapplied against me.

Despite everything, I have remained an artist, author, and advocate. I am dedicated to helping others and to calling attention to these injustices. My autobiography, Betrayed, Murdered, Forsaken, captures this journey, shining a light on systemic abuses that continue to impact countless vulnerable individuals within our institutions.

I am not seeking retribution; I seek justice and basic human rights. With adequate legal aid, I believe fair compensation—similar to cases in Australia and abroad—would be between AUD 1.5 to 10 million to address years of financial deprivation, physical harm, and trauma. But beyond financial restitution, I need acknowledgment, security, and dignity restored to my life.

Please, I ask you as a leader to review my case and the documentation I have shared, to take this appeal seriously, and to support immediate steps to prevent further harm. I am simply asking to be treated with the same fairness and humanity owed to every Australian.

If I receive no meaningful response from any politician regarding my urgent plea, the implications for my situation are deeply troubling on multiple levels—legally, ethically, and morally.

Legally

I am reaching out in good faith, under protections I understand to be my legal rights as an Australian citizen, particularly as a whistleblower and a person with disabilities. If no one responds, it feels like an abandonment of the laws and conventions that Australia has pledged to uphold, like the United Nations Convention Against Torture (UNCAT), the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (ICCPR), and the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD). Without action, it feels like these rights mean nothing for someone like me. The Public Interest Disclosure Act (PID Act) is supposed to protect whistleblowers, and yet here I am—unprotected, unheard, and still suffering.

Ethically

As someone struggling against a system that seems intent on my destruction, the silence from officials is demoralizing. Politicians are supposed to look out for their constituents, especially those of us who are vulnerable. A lack of action on my case would be a signal that they are willing to turn a blind eye to injustice, further embedding the very wrongs I have tried to expose. It makes me feel abandoned by a system that I should be able to trust, and it leaves me wondering if there is any place for empathy and fairness left in public office.

Morally

On a human level, failing to act in response to my situation feels like complicity in the suffering I endure daily. I am a person, deserving of the same dignity and respect as anyone else, yet my pleas seem to be ignored, leaving me to face this alone. There is a moral responsibility here—one that cannot simply be sidestepped or dismissed. I believe every official who receives this message has a duty to help, yet a lack of response would suggest they are willing to let my suffering continue unchecked.

Conclusion

If there is no response, it tells me that the protections I thought I could rely on are selective, that the laws and values designed to protect people like me are hollow promises. Without intervention, I am left alone in a fight for my dignity, my rights, and my very survival. This lack of response would only reinforce the injustices I am trying to overcome, not just for me but for anyone who dares to speak out against corruption or abuse.

This is my last attempt to reach those who have the power to help, and I truly hope that someone will recognize the urgency and humanity of my plea.

I kindly request a dignified response to this email by Friday, 8th November 2024. Thank you sincerely for your attention to this matter.

Kind regards,
Barran Dodger
